

WHAT IS CLAIMED:

1. A method of performing drop-in assembly, comprising:
providing a first frame component with an open track; providing a second frame component including at least one protrusion; and setting the second frame component onto the open track of the first frame component such that the at least one protrusion rests on the open track.